A SURPRISING HOTEL

Last summer, guests at a new hotel in Japan had a big surprise. They discovered that their hotel was very different from other hotels.

The name of the hotel is the Hem-na Hotel, which means "strange hotel". In this hotel, robots, not people, do a lot of the work. They meet you at the door, carry 5 your suitcases and make you a cup of coffee. They even smile at you.

These robots look like young Japanese women. They speak four languages — Japanese, Chinese, Korean and English. They are very polite and helpful. For example, they can tell you about interesting places to visit and good restaurants to eat at.

10 The hotel owner says that using robots saves money for the hotel. The hotel doesn't need to pay them. They don't need to rest or eat and they never complain. Guests also like robots because they don't have to give them tips.

"Today, ten robots 'work' in the hotel together with ten real people," says the owner. "In the future, I believe robots will do almost all of the work. This will 15 make it the most efficient hotel in the world. If this hotel is successful, we may open another one in 2017."
